More About Me

From 1990-2012 I served my country as a Navy Reserve Chaplain and a local parish pastor in Central Indiana. More recently I have worked as a freelance writer in life story preservation. I have written over 75 veteran stories that have been printed in several local community newspapers. I am the author of the 2 volume book series, Our Service, Our Stories, which contains the stories of World War II veterans from Indiana.

I want to serve our Hoosier Veterans by preserving the rich legacy of their military service through printed stories, published books and video productions.

As a fellow veteran I am a proud member of the American Legion, Association of the U.S. Navy, Indy Honor Flight, Military Officers Association of America and the World War 2 Roundtable in Indianapolis.

I look forward to preserving the story of your military service.

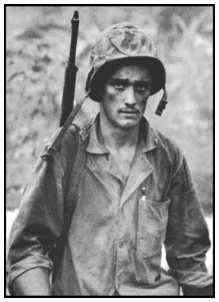
Preserve the Legacy of Your Military Service



World War II

Our World War II and Korean Veterans are dying quickly. And our Vietnam veterans are beginning to pass as well. Each veteran's death we lose not only the person but often the story of his/her military service.

But this tragic loss can be prevented!

My name is Ron May. I am a veteran retired Navy Chaplain, and I am the founder of "Life Story Books". Life Story Books, LLC assists veterans in preserving their military service as a rich legacy to be passed on to bless future generations.

Your military experience is unique and your service, at whatever level, is an important part of history. Think of your story as a tool to educate the public about the era in which you served and perhaps even inspire others into future military service.

But your military story cannot be preserved unless it is first recorded and made accessible to future generations.

I urge ALL VETERANS to preserve their military service while there is still time.
